Entering the flat on the second floor, the front hall leads through to a well-proportioned reception room. This includes an open-plan kitchen along one wall, with enough space for separate dining and seating areas. Wide south-facing windows fill the room with light, while wooden floors give a touch of elegance to the space. A guest WC and additional storage space complete this floor.

The Neighbourhood

Ranelagh House is a striking modern apartment block on Elystan Place. It includes glass-walled corridors, as well as a lift and porter. In addition, the rent includes four hours of cleaning per week.

The building was named after the Chelsea home of the Earl of Ranelagh, which was demolished in 1805. The site then became a pleasure garden, and is now included in the grounds of the Royal Chelsea Hospital.

Ranelagh House is a short walk away from Chelsea Green, the neighbourhood's gastronomic centre with a desirable range of delis, cafes and restaurants. The many shopping options of the King's Road are equally close, while Sloane Square station is also nearby.
