The Property

Delightful flat in a beautiful red brick mansion block on a sought-after street in the heart of Chelsea

Entering the flat on the second floor, the front hall leads through to a well-proportioned reception room. A broad bay window fills this space with light, while bookshelves give an added sense of elegance. There is also a gas fireplace in this room. Opposite is a convenient fitted kitchen.

The Bedrooms

The flat also contains a pair of bedrooms, both with inbuilt wardrobe space and French doors leading out onto balconies. A bathroom with a bath completes the space. The interior of the flat is decorated to a high standard in a traditional style to suit the historic setting. The property includes a pair of balconies with enough space for outdoor seating.

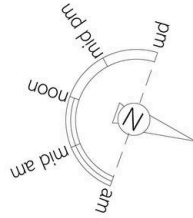

The Neighbourhood

Rossetti Garden Mansions is a beautiful red-brick mansion block built in the late nineteenth century. It is named after the popular pre-Raphaelite artists Dante Gabriel Rossetti, who lived locally, and provides both porter and lift.

From here, Albert Bridge and the Chelsea Embankment are a short distance away, while the beautiful private grounds of the Chelsea Physic Garden and the open spaces of Battersea Park are within each reach. Finally, the celebrated shops and restaurants of the King's Road are nearby, as well as the charming streets that make up the Chelsea village.
